Students with at least a year of full-time hospitality experience prior to their enrollment must provide relevant documents to support their application.

Health Care

Health Care is a requirement by law in the People's Republic of China. In order to comply with these regulations and obtain a student visa, it is compulsory that students book a Health Insurance plan with a local Chinese provider through the College.

A nurse is available daily, and the inclusive insurance is honored worldwide except for the United States.

Due to legislative standards, international insurance through the student's domestic provider or family insurance cannot be recognized as documents of college entrance.

The International Student Health Care Plan will be purchased through the school for an additional charge of 3,800 CNY per person, per academic semester, in addition to the main fees. Upon acceptance by the College, the Admissions team will send the student the Acceptance Package and the invoice, which will state the additional cost for the International Student Health Care Plan.

The International Student Health Care Plan policy coverage details are distributed to students during the orientation phase on campus. The policy details are also available at any time by request from Les Roches Jin Jiang Admissions.

Please note: The International Student Health Care Plan organized through the college is valid from the student's check-in day on campus until the last day of the semester. The International Student Health Care Plan does not cover the student during summer and winter breaks. During school days, a nurse is available on campus from 8:30am-4:00pm.

Laptop Policy

The school does not provide a laptop for the students and the main fees do not include laptop or hardware support for students' personal computers. The responsibility of maintenance, purchase of software, upgrades, and support rests with the student.

Other Expenses

It is estimated that students require a minimum sum of around 1,800 CNY per month in order to finance their daily expenses which may include snacks and drinks, entertainment, essential stationery, transportation costs, and laundry service costs among others.

Internship

All students are requested to complete their internship(s) in establishments approved by the school. The main objective of student internships is to prepare students for their professional career by developing their managerial, entrepreneurial, and personal skills to their fullest through interesting and challenging hands-on experiences.

Les Roches Jin Jiang has established excellent relationships within the hospitality and tourism industry, and a wide choice of training opportunities are offered to students in large and small companies, in China and abroad. However, some nationalities can be restricted by a country's government visa and work permit policies as well as language requirements.

Although interns are generally paid by the employer, the remuneration received cannot be expected to finance studies at Les Roches Jin Jiang. The salary and benefits are subject to negotiation between the employer and the student.

Please note: Internships are not limited geographically to China.

Visa Procedures

All students are required to arrive in Mainland China for academic studies at Les Roches Jin Jiang with an Entry Student Visa (type X1 or X2).

VISA DEFINITION: Entry Student Visa (type X1 or X2) is issued to an alien who comes to China for study purposes.

Important: The Student Visa does not allow an international student to work part-time or full-time during their studies.

VISA DURATION: The visa support documents provided by school Admissions will state the time period as equal to the time period of the purchased period of studies (stated on the invoice).

The time period covered by a Student X1 Temporary Residence Permit (which is received 30 days after the intake starting date) is dependent on the student's main fees payment. For example, if a student settles the main fees payment for one academic semester, then the time period covered by their Student X1 Temporary Residence Permit will be one academic semester.

SUPPORTING DOCUMENTS: Admissions will provide students with the required visa support documents: the unique JW202 form, Admission Notice (two versions of the document: one in English and one in Chinese) and the Certificate of Medical Insurance. The visa support documents will state the duration of the Student Visa as equal to the time period of the purchased period of studies (stated on the invoice).

VISA APPLICATION DEADLINE:

It is recommended to apply for the entry Student Visa (type X1) to the Chinese consulate not earlier than 90 days before the program start date, since the Student Visa fixed inside the student's passport is valid from the date of issuance and for three months, permitting the student to enter China within this time frame only.

PASSPORT VALIDITY: Applicant's original passport should have at least six months of remaining validity and a minimum two blank pages.

VISA PROCEDURE FOR ACCEPTED STUDENTS (FULL PAYMENT MADE):

Step 1: Application documents for the Entry Student Visa (type X1)

Visa support documents prepared by the school are sent to students by both email and registered mail not earlier than 45-60 days before the start of the intake.

Admissions will provide students with the following visa support documents: the unique JW202 form, Admission Notice (two versions of the document: one in English and one in Chinese) and the Certificate of Medical Insurance. The visa support documents will state the duration of the Student Visa as equal to the time period of the purchased period of studies (stated on the invoice).

Step 2: Receipt of the Entry Student Visa (type X1 or X2)

The Entry Student visa stamp/sticker (type X1 or X2) received outside of Mainland China will state "1" as the student's number of entries to China permitted; and "30 days" or "90 days" as the duration of stay, or "000" meaning the duration of stay to be determined upon arrival to China.

Step 3: Student X1 Temporary Residence Permit Application in Shanghai

Once students enter China with their Entry Student Visa (type X1 or X2), the school applies for them the Student X1 Temporary Residence Permit. Required for every foreign student, this can only be obtained within China (meaning arrival to China before obtaining this permit is compulsory).

Since the Entry Student Visa should be converted to the Temporary Residence Permit within 30 days from the entry date to China, students should not arrive in China earlier than 7 days before the official intake date.

NEW AND EXCHANGE STUDENTS:

Successful applicants will receive the Acceptance

Package together with the invoice. After the Finance department issues the receipt of the main fees payment, Admissions will forward the receipt of payment to the student and inform them of the date when the original copies of the Welcome Package together with the visa support documents will be sent to their mailing address.

Accepted students should then make an inquiry at the Chinese Embassy/ Consulate in their country of residence for the list of documents required to apply for the Entry Student Visa (type X1).

Should a student wish to apply for the Entry Student Visa in a country other than their home country, they must check their eligibility with the Chinese Consulate/Embassy in the selected country of application.

Please note: Visa support documents are forwarded to students separately from the receipt of payment. Visa support documents are sent together with the Welcome Package by email and registered mail not earlier than 45-60 days before the start of the intake.

Student X1 Temporary Residence Permit Application Process in Shanghai

Within 30 days of entry to China, the holder of an Entry Student Visa (type X1 or X2) upon arrival to China should go through the residential formalities (application for the Student X1 Temporary Residence Permit is carried out by Les Roches Jin Jiang). There are no additional fees involved; all Residence Permit application fees are already included in the main fees.

The permitted duration of stay and unlimited exits and re-entries to China will be specified then in the new Student X1 Temporary Residence Permit stamp/sticker. A Student X1 Temporary Residence Permit can only be obtained inside China (meaning arrival to China before obtaining this permit is compulsory).

Since the Entry Student Visa should be converted to the Temporary Residence Permit within 30 days from the entry date to China, the student should not arrive in China earlier than 7 days before the official intake date.

Visa Extension Procedure for another immediate academic semester

Students do NOT need to return to their home country to extend their Student X1 Temporary Residence Permit for another immediate academic semester, as Les Roches Jin Jiang will assist in the application for the Student X1 Temporary Residence Permit extension in Shanghai. However, the students will need to ensure that they meet the payment deadline for their next semester. The LRJJ International Student Office on campus will inform the student of this process and make the application for the Student X1 Temporary Residence Permit extension. There are no additional fees involved; all Residence Permit application fees are already included in the main fees.

RETURNING STUDENTS:

Students returning to the school for their academic studies after doing an internship in Shanghai must contact the Career Development and Industry Placement (CDIP) department not later than four months before the start of the intake for assistance in applying for the Student X1 Temporary Residence Permit extension in Shanghai.

The CDIP department will inform the students of the Student X1 Temporary Residence Permit extension procedure in Shanghai. There are no additional fees involved; all Residence Permit extension fees are already included in the main fees.

Students returning to the school for their academic studies after their internship outside of Shanghai should contact the Career Development and Industry Placement (CDIP) department not later than four months before the start of the intake. The CDIP department will inform students how to obtain visa support documents.

The International Student Office reserves all the rights of final explanation and revision for the visa policy and procedure.
